

Clinical Information

Here you will find a resource that gives you access to clinical information about breast reconstruction:

PubMed.org.

PubMed.org lets you search millions of journal citations and abstracts in the fields of medicine, nursing, dentistry, veterinary medicine, the healthcare system and preclinical sciences. PubMed.org also provides access to additional relevant Web sites.

When you reach the PubMed.org home page, enter the keywords of the subject you wish to explore (for example, "breast reconstruction and tissue matrix") in the Search box at the top of the page and click "Search." Related articles will appear in a new window, where you can click on them. Bear in mind that most of these articles are written by medical professionals, for medical professionals. As always, please consult your doctor with any questions you may have about breast reconstruction.

To access the site, visit <http://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pubmed>.

Important Information: Every patient is different and their reconstruction options and their results may vary. All depictions on the site are for illustration purposes only. Whether or not you have breast reconstruction is a decision you need to make in consultation with your physician. Only you and your physician can determine the best option for you. Please ask your doctor to explain the benefits and risk of various reconstruction options and whether they are right for you.
